

Overview

For businesses that value their brand names, designs and inventions, our Intellectual Property and Technology practice group serves as an important partner, providing you with the full range of services covering all aspects of intellectual property and technology law.

Benefit from a dynamic practice comprised of a team of experienced patent lawyers and engineers that are regularly recognized as leaders their respective fields and are always keeping abreast of developments in a rapidly changing landscape, particularly in biotechnology, media and telecommunications.

Take advantage of our full suite of legal counsel and advisory services, from the registration and management of intellectual property, to transactions and contentious actions involving such property. We manage the entire IP portfolio (covering trademarks, patents, designs and copyright) for numerous local and foreign entities. This includes advising on the selection and registration of trademarks, drafting patent specifications and prosecuting patent applications.

Our strong transactional experience includes counseling our clients on branding and rebranding strategies, structuring their IP rights and working closely with them to commercialize their rights through franchising, licensing and technology transfer arrangements.

Rely on a team which regularly handles multijurisdictional portfolios, providing proactive and defensive action to protect and advance your interests. We maintain tracking systems to monitor our clients' intellectual property rights, and should litigation arise, you will be seamlessly supported by colleagues in our Intellectual Property Litigation practice for advice and representation in passing off and anti-piracy actions, as well as in high stakes litigation relating to patent claims, and trademark and copyright infringement.
